

Vol. 15, No. 26
Canada's Famous Anti-Strike Law
Declared Void By Toronto Judge

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR

WEEKLY NEWS SERVICE
WASHINGTON, D. C. SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1932

Canada's Famous Anti-Strike Law Declared Void By Toronto Judge

On Sept. 13, Toronto Judge J. H. Macdonald, in a decision of great importance, declared void the famous anti-strike law of 1907, which had been the basis of the Canadian labor movement's struggle for recognition of the right to strike.

The decision was a landmark in the history of the Canadian labor movement, and it was hailed by labor leaders as a victory for the right to strike.

The decision was a landmark in the history of the Canadian labor movement, and it was hailed by labor leaders as a victory for the right to strike.

The decision was a landmark in the history of the Canadian labor movement, and it was hailed by labor leaders as a victory for the right to strike.

The decision was a landmark in the history of the Canadian labor movement, and it was hailed by labor leaders as a victory for the right to strike.

The decision was a landmark in the history of the Canadian labor movement, and it was hailed by labor leaders as a victory for the right to strike.

The decision was a landmark in the history of the Canadian labor movement, and it was hailed by labor leaders as a victory for the right to strike.

The decision was a landmark in the history of the Canadian labor movement, and it was hailed by labor leaders as a victory for the right to strike.

The decision was a landmark in the history of the Canadian labor movement, and it was hailed by labor leaders as a victory for the right to strike.

The decision was a landmark in the history of the Canadian labor movement, and it was hailed by labor leaders as a victory for the right to strike.

The decision was a landmark in the history of the Canadian labor movement, and it was hailed by labor leaders as a victory for the right to strike.

The decision was a landmark in the history of the Canadian labor movement, and it was hailed by labor leaders as a victory for the right to strike.

The decision was a landmark in the history of the Canadian labor movement, and it was hailed by labor leaders as a victory for the right to strike.

The decision was a landmark in the history of the Canadian labor movement, and it was hailed by labor leaders as a victory for the right to strike.

The decision was a landmark in the history of the Canadian labor movement, and it was hailed by labor leaders as a victory for the right to strike.

NO PRINCIPLE IN UNION-SMASHING

The United States coal commission refers to the union-smashing policy of certain owners as a "principle."

The commission takes this position when it says that the owners of the coal mines are "principles," and the miners want "all the mines."

Such is quite satisfied that peace can only come by killing the other fellow's principle.

This statement is most important. It indicates the mental attitude of a government, one that discloses relations between employer and employee.

The commission has made many startling statements, but possibly none can equal this claim that mine smashes is a "principle."

How can principle be involved in the smashing of a trade union?

That is a question that, if it is to be answered, must be answered in a way that is not only logical, but also just.

All this said, the purpose of these comments is to control workers and secure cheap labor.

RED "BOKERS FROM WITHIN"

Washington, Sept. 13.—Bill Powell, editor of the Mine Workers' Journal, has issued a statement in which he says that the reds are "bokers from within."

What ethics would these employers uphold in denying a union that is one of man's most primitive instincts?

To call the coal owners' policy a "principle" is to corrupt the term. Such usage waters down the ethical slogan, and makes it meaningless.

Union smashing will remain union smashing, and it will never be changed by the use of the word "principle."

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

RED "BOKERS FROM WITHIN"

Washington, Sept. 13.—Bill Powell, editor of the Mine Workers' Journal, has issued a statement in which he says that the reds are "bokers from within."

What ethics would these employers uphold in denying a union that is one of man's most primitive instincts?

To call the coal owners' policy a "principle" is to corrupt the term. Such usage waters down the ethical slogan, and makes it meaningless.

Union smashing will remain union smashing, and it will never be changed by the use of the word "principle."

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

Union smashing can never be associated with morality and ethics.

AGITATE! EDUCATE! ORGANIZE!

WHOLE NO. 648

WAS FOSTER ATTACK ANOTHER FRAME-UP?

Chicago, Sept. 13.—"Foster to find himself in the hands of the law," declared the Chicago Tribune, which has been attacking the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Tribune's attack on Foster is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Tribune's attack on Foster is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Tribune's attack on Foster is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Tribune's attack on Foster is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Tribune's attack on Foster is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Tribune's attack on Foster is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Tribune's attack on Foster is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Tribune's attack on Foster is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Tribune's attack on Foster is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Tribune's attack on Foster is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Tribune's attack on Foster is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Tribune's attack on Foster is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

GOUGERS WANT EXCUSE FOR USUAL "HOLD-UP"

Washington, Sept. 13.—Governor Charles McNary, of Oregon, has issued a statement in which he says that the miners are "gougers" who want an excuse for their usual "hold-up."

The Governor's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Governor's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Governor's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Governor's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Governor's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Governor's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Governor's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Governor's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Governor's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Governor's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Governor's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The Governor's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

WYOMING MINE-BLAST PREDICTED BY MINER

Seattle, Sept. 13.—The mine explosion expert, J. H. Powell, has issued a statement in which he says that a mine blast is predicted in Wyoming.

Powell's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

Powell's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

Powell's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

Powell's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

Powell's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

Powell's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

Powell's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

Powell's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

Powell's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

Powell's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

Powell's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

Powell's statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

ABSENT LAND OWNERS' CONTROL WEST VIRGINIA

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 13.—The state of West Virginia has issued a statement in which it says that the land owners are absent and that the state is in control.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

Managers Use War Cues For Peace-Time Propaganda

Washington, Sept. 13.—The railroads are using war cues for peace-time propaganda, according to a statement issued by the National Labor Relations Board.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

RESIST UNIONISM

Washington, Sept. 13.—The National Labor Relations Board has issued a statement in which it says that the labor movement is resisting unionism.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

STEWART RE-ELECTED

Washington, Sept. 13.—The National Labor Relations Board has issued a statement in which it says that Stewart has been re-elected.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

CAN'T LOWER RATES

San Jose, Calif., Sept. 13.—The United Fruit Company has issued a statement in which it says that it cannot lower its rates.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

REFUSE UNIONISM

Washington, Sept. 13.—The National Labor Relations Board has issued a statement in which it says that the labor movement is refusing unionism.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

NO LABOR SHORTAGE

Washington, Sept. 13.—The National Labor Relations Board has issued a statement in which it says that there is no labor shortage.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.

The statement is a continuation of the same line of attack that has been used against the labor movement since the death of Eugene V. Debs.